Junior E-Learning Designer/Developer (Remote)
Location: Remote (U.S.)

LawFirmElearning is a small, rapidly-growing company that creates online learning solutions for law firms and businesses across North America and abroad. Our team is comprised of creative, entrepreneurial self-starters, all of whom work remotely. We are highly creative and productive without the distractions of a commute or office environment.

This is a small company so you will have the opportunity to make a significant impact. We are currently looking for a junior E-Learning Developer to join our team. In this role, you'll use a variety of software and tools to edit and customize graphic-rich, visually engaging self-paced online courses and tutorials. Visit www.lawfirmelearning.com to see samples of our work.

Position responsibilities:

- Edit and customize engaging and interactive e-learning modules for high-level adult learners (content and modules are already developed).
- Collaborate with project management and e-learning development team to meet (and exceed) client expectations.

Required junior-level software experience and proficiency:

- Articulate Storyline (1+ year)
- Adobe Photoshop
- Camtasia/Adobe Premiere
- Audacity
- Microsoft PowerPoint

Technical skills are just a piece of the puzzle – there are some traits you'll need in order to be successful here, too. Be prepared to talk about yourself and how you embody each of the traits listed below.

Desired traits:

- Organized
- Strong communicator (written and verbal)
- Problem solver
- Creative
- Motivated
- Detail oriented
- Positive attitude
- Eager to further develop existing skills as well as learn new ones

To be considered, please submit all of the following items via http://lawfirmelearning.com/careers.html
(1) Your resume
(2) Link to work samples that showcase the basic skills required for this position*
(3) Your brief thoughts on why you think you'd be a good fit for this type of role
